Terms & Conditions

Our ISO refrigerated containers are not UL certified. The ISO container meets international standards for this type of container but does not include a UL certification. Please note that if an electrical and/or container inspection by the facility and/or a local or state official is required, and they require a UL certification, then a 3rd party certification company will need to be brought in to do a field inspection. The lessee or purchaser is responsible facilitating any type of inspection and any associated cost. Mortech does not provide any service related to UL certification, this would be the responsibility of the purchaser or lessee.
